Buda man, 52, killed along I-35 near FM 132

A 52-year-old Buda man died when he was walking along the shoulder of Interstate 35, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety. Investigators charged an Austin man with negligent homicide in connection with the death.

Officials said Clarence Timmermann Jr. was walking away from his 1976 Chevrolet Suburban which he had parked along the shoulder of southbound lanes of the highway half a mile south of FM 1325 about 3 a.m. Sunday.

A 1990 Ford pickup truck driven by Bryan Laird Reese of Austin left the roadway, hit the Suburban and struck Timmermann, according to Trooper William Garrison.

Investigators said Timmermann was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident at 3 a.m.

Reese, 24, was charged with criminally negligent homicide.

Alpine in Austin

Twelfth and Last Annual gathering of those who ever lived in Alpine, Texas (or wish they had):

This is the LAST ANNUAL Alpine in Austin. We feel that it is time for a change. Perhaps we should regroup as an SRSU Ex-Student get together or maybe just reconvene in several years. It has been fun and rewarding. We have felt a sense of recall of a different place and time, and that has been good.

With McDonald Observatory launching its new laser scope, the Hobby-Eberly Telescope, the highest of high tech is alive and well in the Big Bend. We will have telescopes and our own Star Party. SRSU is also up with the times with growth, expansion and academic excellence. Rep. Pete Gallego will provide an update on the Lege.

You will love Shady Springs (see map below)! It is a beautiful setting with unlighted open space for the telescopes and visiting and OUTSTANDING BBQ. We also anticipate some musical entertainment by Bruce Newman, Washtub Jerry* and our own Shanna Cowell on the Rhythm-a-gig!

*Washtub Jerry is an engineer at McDonald Observatory who spends his free time entertaining his friends on his #6 Mexican Washtub with a clutch cable from a Porsche 914 as the string.

ABANDONED STORY CYCLE: BUTTING HEADS PHYSICALLY AND METAPHYSICALLY

John Henry Faulk Living Theatre, through April 5
Running Time: 2 hrs

All they wanted was an ending to their story. For 100 years, they'd accepted being characters in a tale abandoned by its author, left to exist without any sense of what their ultimate fate might be. The author would never pick up their story again; he was dead, for pity's sake! Why should they not try to end the story themselves? That's all they were trying to do. How were they to know that endings were so... complicated?

Alas, for poor Burkin and Ivan Ivanich, the two characters left in literary limbo when Anton Chekhov left unfinished the novel in which they were featured, taking their story into their own hands winds up being considerably more frustrating than they expected. They start out figuring stories to be docile cattle that will turn in whichever direction the storyteller desires. But their venture into the field shows stories to be more like wild horses that are likely to carry their riders (writers?) through brambles or dark woods or anywhere else the animals choose to run. As they come to realize how little control they have over the horse they're riding, Burkin and Ivan Ivanich respond with varying degrees of irritation, dismay, alarm.

Their vexation, however, is our elation. Playwright Joseph Skibell has penned these protagonists as old-school buffoons, figures at odds with the world around them whose efforts to cope with it - almost always doomed to disaster - prod our sense of fun and make us laugh. The ways in which Burkin and Ivan Ivanich butt heads, stumble, and flail physically and metaphysically - are a classic comedy, in every sense of the word.

Take 290 out of Austin. When in Waller, take FM 2920 ~~West~~ <sup>EAST</sup> to Tomball. Proceed through Tomball, and when a few miles outside the town, turn left on Dowdell Road, which is at a traffic light. Continue on Dowdell crossing Kuykendahl Road. Dowdell curves around across Railroad tracks and turns into Root Road. Continue on Root Road past the schools on both sides of the road. Turn left on Northcrest Drive. About 1-1/4 miles, and through 3 stop signs, turn left on Kingscrest Lane. It turns into West Kingscrest Circle. Our home is the third on the left. 24619 West Kingscrest. We'll be waiting for you!!!

Alpine Avalanche
 Thursday, SEPTEMBER 17, 1998

Alpine extends warm welcome to pilots
 Last year my husband/pilot Dee and I attended the 1st Annual Labor Day Balloon Rally in Alpine accompanied by our neighbors, former Alpine resident Martin Theophilus and his wife Chris.
 We so fell in love with Alpine and it's residents that we plan to eventually move to the area. We looked forward all year to attending this year's Balloon Rally and enjoying in perfect weather conditions while surrounded by the beautiful scenery.
 We spoke so highly of Alpine and the Balloon Rally that we convinced 4 members of our Austin crew to make the trip this year. Even our daughter Paige and a friend drove in from Albuquerque to join us. Martin and Chris Theophilus returned also.

This year we returned with 4 additional Austin area
 pilots: Lloyd Cates, Fred Edmiston, Dick Goss, Rusty
 Kaim and several members of their crews.
 On behalf of ourselves and these pilots and crew, we want to thank the event organizers, sponsors, volunteer crew persons and townspeople for extending such a warm welcome to all of us.

Also, a special Thank You to our balloonmeister, Bruce Boatman. This is one of the most fun and enjoyable balloon rallies in the state of Texas.
 Thanks again for your friendly Alpine hospitality!
